IF WE DIE TOMORROW

TIM SWALLOW

Tim Swallow's latest work 'If We Die Tomorrow' depicts a series of lost worlds in which scenes of spontaneous revelry break out against a backdrop of striking and lurid landscapes.

Swallow's work is a journey exploring his carefree generation – it is in the sweet liminal zone between music, fashion and a perpetually sun soaked life that edges on the unashamedly hedonistic, yet unabashed innocence of youth culture. 'If We Die Tomorrow' is a unique body of work that showcases Swallow's world that comes across as something both entirely real and fantastic, yet at the same time finely crafted and wholly buck wild and free.

Based in Sydney, Swallow is the co-founder and director of well-known creative studio Lagoon Collective. He has shot editorials for numerous fashion and lifestyle publications, and is considered to be among the country's most innovative and prolific young artists.
